Keeping Families Together

Andrea Barbour (Director)

Deborah Maize, a missionary for over 35 years with Cru Inc. (formally Campus Crusade for Christ), founded this ministry in 2007 to carry on the legacy and dream of her mother, Mrs. Norma K. Shelby.

Sis. Shelby was a committed Christian adamant about serving holistically the needs of women, men and children. After working 20 years professionally for the city of Louisville in the area of Child Development, she opened her own family business in the basement of her home which is right across the street from the present establishment. That 41st Street Child Care Center opened in 1986 and officially closed in 2002. Mrs. Norma K. Shelby “graduated into glory” on Mother’s Day in 2005.

Sis. Shelby was her own “Mother Teresa” when it came to the concern of the poor, both situational and generational. Through that center on a day-to-day basis, physical, emotional and spiritual needs for the entire family were addressed. She never used van service because she met and often ministered to parents or guardians every morning. Programs were structured to meet challenges holistically from an intergenerational perspective and her noted motto was “from welfare to fairing well!”

The 41st Street Family Care Center was Deborah’s vision and she testifies about God raising up many others including her co-worker and sister in Christ, Robin VanderWerf to help launch, undergird and serve the foundational development of what is now in operation! Deborah and Robin were assigned to other fields of service in 2010 and the baton of leadership for Louisville’s 41st Street ministry was given to Deborah’s sister Andrea Barbour, a gifted servant, being used of God to “Keep the Fire Burning.”

The 41st Street Family Care Center is a not-for-profit organization, run by a director and board committed to the Shawnee community...

- Its MISSION – “Keeping Families Together”
- Its GOAL is to deliver services that meet needs (and...)
- Its PRAYER is that people will receive hope to carry on

The present director, Mrs. Andrea Barbour closes with her Mom’s favorite quote:

“TO GOD BE THE GLORY”
